ARVADA WORKS

The Arvada Chamber of Commerce is engaging employers, educators and partners across Arvada in developing a new demand-driven approach—talent pipeline management—to close the skills gap that many of our local employers have expressed extreme concern with. Through extending lessons learned from innovations in supply chain management, this is a call for employers to play a new and expanded leadership role as “end-customers” of education and workforce partnerships. Employers in various high demand industry sectors will engage in demand planning, communicate credentialing requirements and analyze talent flow and seek gaps within our system. This process will allow for better communication of local needs, improved communication of job requirements and opportunities to breakdown perceived stigmas around certain careers.
